The Recage project was mentioned during a lesson for the postgraduate Specialization Degree (PGSD) program in Neuroscience And Neurodegeneration at the Medical School of the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki (AUMS)

Conference that was held on April 8th in Modena (Italy). During the event, entitled "The rehabilitation of dementias. From research to the real world", Dr. Andrea Fabbo talked about his team's activities and took stock of the situation on the #RE Cage project and on the role of SCU-B in the Italian context.

Goal of RECAGE

The major objective of REspectful Caring for AGitated Elderly (RECAGE) will be to adapt and upscale the implementation of a peculiar intervention aimed at controlling BPSD, the special medical care unit for persons with dementia and BPSD (SCU-B)¹⁰, an intervention that, albeit already implemented in some European countries, is not widespread and has not been sufficiently studied so far, although it seems to be promising, both for its short term efficacy (alleviating BPSD and improving quality of life of PwD) and possibly for its long term efficacy, measured as delay of NHP.
